

The Nyangwe Diary of David Livingstone: Restoring the Text

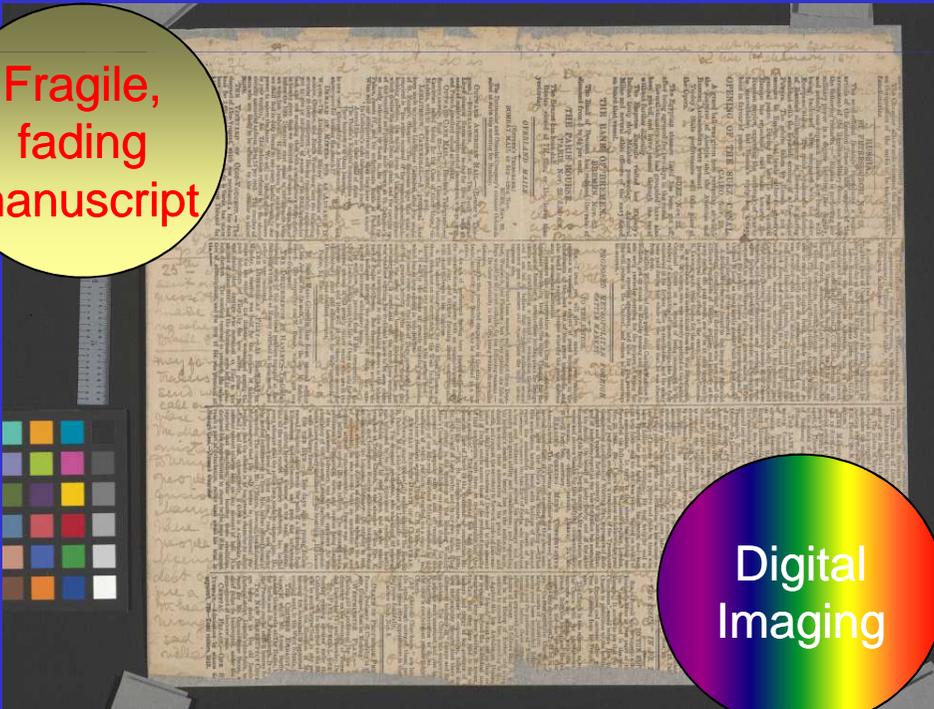

Adrian S. Wisnicki
Project Director

Michael B. Toth
Program Manager

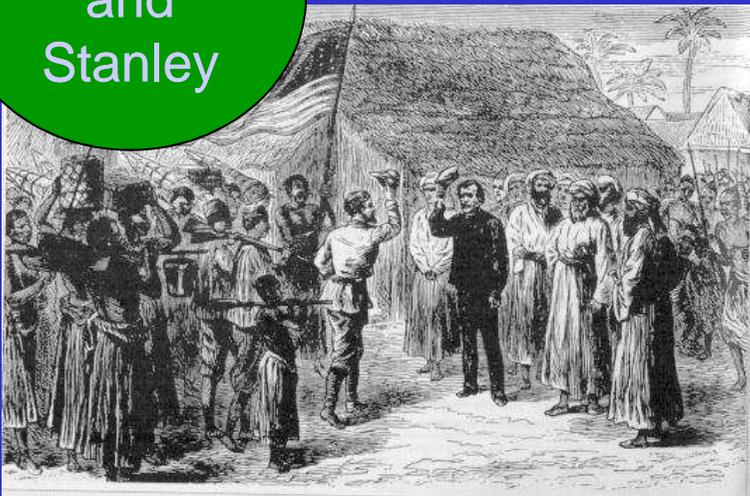

Massacre
in the Congo

Fragile, fading manuscript

Digital
Imaging

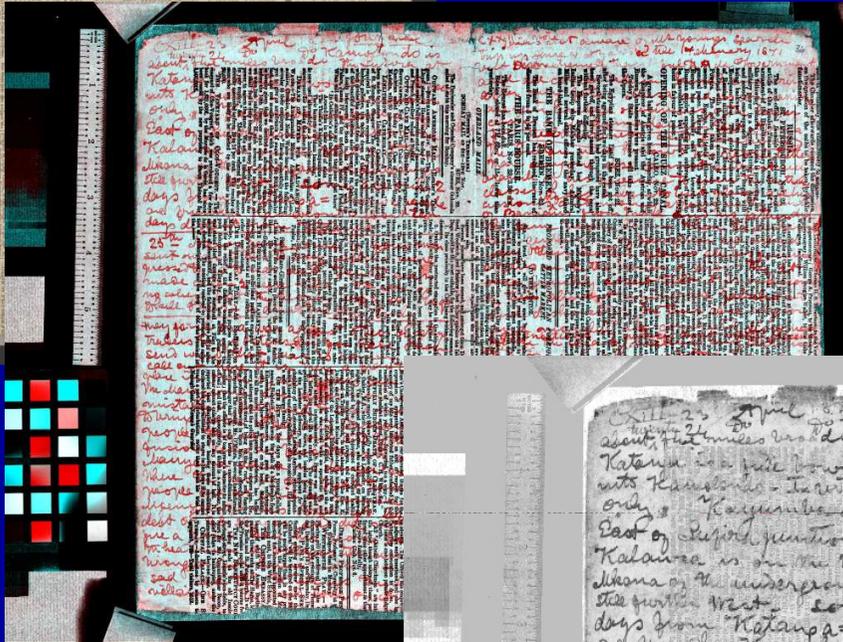

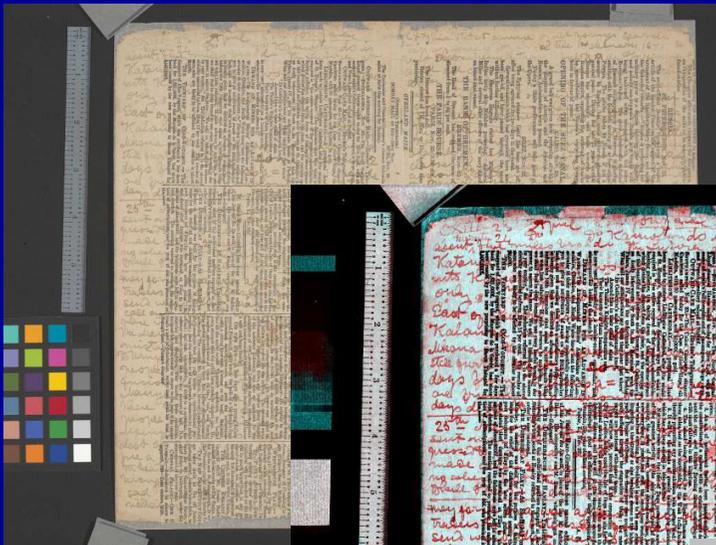

Livingstone
and Stanley

Integrating Tasks & Team

Multispectral Imaging / XML Critical Edition

Call 23 April 1861
 about 24 miles from the Victoria at Katanga is a full grown man who goes into Kamulona - the name of the only Kamulona children as East of Supur junction the name Kalama is in the West of it and Alkoma of the underground dwellings the further West some are only 2 days from Katanga = Charo people and President Kamulona is about ten days distant from Katanga 25th I saw some come by four men sent near to this to buy water were guests to go to near sent them a man made callen 2 were killed - We can go no other but the Alkoma who is a big Black & there is a great deal of they said one was against them who the traders to go to Kamulona for trade then said we'd that was to come and call out here it is in a very tall place in the middle of all the trees and do the Alkoma and the Kamulona are on the same level as the Kamulona and they were at the end of the people they would only go to the conquision ready as the Alkoma as the Kamulona where no danger exists where the people can get traders and people and no such as Kamulona - At Katanga the people are not a few - here his people found the Alkoma by villages the Kamulona living in the Alkoma and the said that the Alkoma are the villainy - The Lord look out

Call 23 April 1861
 about 24 miles from the Victoria at Katanga is a full grown man who goes
 into Kamulona - the name of the
 only Kamulona children as
 East of Supur junction the name
 Kalama is in the West of it and
 Alkoma of the underground dwellings
 the further West some are only 2
 days from Katanga = Charo people
 and President Kamulona is about ten
 days distant from Katanga
 25th I saw some come by four men
 sent near to this to buy water were
 guests to go to near sent them a man
 made callen 2 were killed - We can go
 no other but the Alkoma who is a big
 Black & there is a great deal of
 they said one was against them who the
 traders to go to Kamulona for trade then
 said we'd that was to come and
 call out here it is in a very tall
 place in the middle of all the trees and do
 the Alkoma and the Kamulona are
 on the same level as the Kamulona and
 they were at the end of the
 people they would only go to the con-
 quision ready as the Alkoma as the
 Kamulona where no danger exists
 where the people can get traders and
 people and no such as Kamulona - At
 Katanga the people are not
 a few - here his people found
 the Alkoma by villages the Kamulona
 living in the Alkoma and the
 said that the Alkoma are the
 villainy - The Lord look out

Livingstone Online Home Page - Mozilla Firefox

File Edit View History Bookmarks Yahoo! Tools Help

http://www.livingstoneonline.urd.ac.uk/ Thank You

Livingstone Online

Explore the medical writings of David Livingstone

Home

- About Livingstone Online
- Our Latest Announcement
- David Livingstone's Life
- Livingstone's Manuscript Legacy
- Catalogue of Livingstone's Papers
- Read Livingstone's Papers
- Historical Companion to Livingstone's Legacy
- Collaborating Institutions
- Editorial Policies
- Links

Welcome to Livingstone Online

Livingstone Online is an ongoing project that provides access to the medical and scientific writings of the missionary, doctor and African explorer David Livingstone (1813-1873). We currently offer detailed transcriptions of many of his letters and we aim to make all his medical and scientific writings freely available online. We also have a complete catalogue of Livingstone's letters as well as a growing collection of essays concerning the historical contexts of Livingstone's life, works and writings.

David Livingstone's medicine chest.
Credit: Wellcome Library, London.

Recently published texts

- Letter to John Washington (18 April 1861)
National Museum of the Royal Navy, Portsmouth, UK, MSS. 120